GENERAL INFORMATION

The Interterm at Mount St. Mary's College is designed to provide a unique educational experience for both students and faculty and make feasible a better use of off-campus facilities for enriching the students' education. During the month of January, students ordinarily concentrate on a single activity. Opportunities for interdepartmental work, for in-depth study in one area, for research, for internships, for experience oriented courses, for independent study, for special projects designed by the students, and for travel will be available during the Interterm. Opportunities are also available for students to participate in Interterm experiences at other colleges on an exchange basis.

Full-time students at Mount St. Mary's participate in the Interterm Program as part of the academic year. Students are encouraged to "explore" interest areas both inside and outside of their major department on either the Chalon or the Doheny Campus. A maximum of two Interterm courses (during the four years) may be taken in any one department. Students should also note that a maximum of 6 non-required units in the area of Special Programs, ie. Y courses, may be counted towards a degree.

Enrollment in Interterm courses will be determined on a first come, first serve basis. However, any senior who enrolls in a class during the pre-registration period may have first preference. The ordinary class load is 3 units, but a student may take 2 to 4 units during a give Interterm. Students will register for the Interterm during November.

Interterm courses may be taken on a grade basis (ie. A, B, C, D, F). Or, a student may, with the instructor's approval, opt to take a course on a "credit/no-credit" basis rather than for a letter grade, provided the course is not taken for a general studies requirement. The student should make her preference known to the instructor at the beginning of the term.

Interterm offerings are listed on the following pages under the headings of Humanities, Social Science, Natural Science, Religious Studies, Philosophy, Professional Preparation, and Other. Courses which may be taken to fulfill general studies requirements are listed at the end of this booklet. All courses are offered for three units of credit unless otherwise specified. Thus, a student should plan on devoting her full time (30-40 hrs./week) to the experience she chooses to pursue.

A student who wishes to undertake an independent study during the 1979 Interterm, will be required to submit an outline of her purpose, tentative bibliography, procedure, and target dates to the faculty member who has agreed to direct her study. This proposal must be approved by the faculty member and sent to the Dean by November 17, 1978.

Tuition and residence fees for full time students are determined for the academic year. Tuition for a part time student will be $90 per unit unless the student is on an exchange agreement from another 4-1-4 college. Room and board for a part time student living on campus during the month of January will be $170.

Three unit classes will meet in the assigned places (to be posted) on the Chalon of Doheny Campus at 9 A.M. on January 2, 1979 and hours/ places of future meetings will be determined at that time. One and two unit classes will meet at 11 A.M. the first day with future meetings to be assigned. In the case of courses involving travel, the student should contact the faculty sponsor and inquire as to the time and place of the first meeting.

It is our hope that you will enjoy an innovative and enriching experience during the 1979 Interterm at Mount St. Mary's College.

SOCIAL SCIENCE

POP PSYCHOLOGY PSY 190

Instructor: Dr. Dwight Risky

To many people, "psychology" means the intuitively appealing theories and therapies that "pop up" so frequently in magazines and paperback books - and then, like fad diets, fade from view just as suddenly. This course will investigate the relationship between this phenomenon known as pop psychology and more traditional psychological thought. Each student will examine a specific type of pop therapy with a focus on the empirical usefulness of its underlying theory, how that theory relates to traditional schools of psychological thought, and the effectiveness of the therapy. As a whole, the class will attempt to establish the characteristic features of pop theories and therapies, and reach some conclusions about their value.

Eligibility: Open to students who have taken General Psychology

Enrollment Limits: 20

Special Costs: None

Location: Chalon Campus

SOCIOLOGICAL PERSPECTIVES SOC 5

Instructor: Mrs. Mimi Simson

An introduction to the discipline of sociology through lectures, informed discussions, observation techniques and films. The course encompasses the basic vocabulary of sociology, its concepts and various aspects of social structure. Customs and interrelationships between different cultural and status groups are studied in regard to styles of life, attitudes and values. The sociological perspective is not only a prerequisite for all upper division sociology courses but is a firm basis for understanding some of the perplexing changes in society today.
